WORLD SERIES SHOCK

NSL pulls out its players; tourists to play each other?

By LAURIE SCHWAB

The NSL dropped a bombshell yesterday (Tuesday) when it informed acting ASF president Ian Brusasco that it was withdrawing all of its players from the Soccerroo "A" and "B" squads to play against Juventus of Turin, Manchester United, Iraklis, Glasgow Rangers and Nottingham Forest in a big international series due to kick off in Sydney this Saturday.

NSL clubs met in Sydney and Melbourne last Monday night and decided to make this landmark move. Only St George Budapest resisted.

"We restructured the league for ASF Marketing, we agreed to this international series and to the formation of two national squads even though we weren't happy about it, all on the understanding that we would get $240,000 of sponsorship money from West Nally through ASF Marketing," said NSL president Sam Pappasavas.

"But last week we found out that there was no guarantee that we would get the money."

"Then we found out that our National Cup games would be competing with telecasts of this international series, so we decided to act."

"We advised our players on Monday and Tuesday of this week that they were not to turn up to Soccerroo training in Sydney and Melbourne. If they turn up they will be breaking their club contracts."

However, not all NSL players were informed of the move yesterday (Tuesday). Most of the "A" squad attended training in Sydney, while just 14 of the "B" squad players arrived at the team's Melbourne headquarters, the Parkroyal Motel.

"We want a guarantee that the $240,000 will be paid. We want $100,000 paid by June 1 and the rest of the money paid by the end of this year," said Pappasavas.

"These international games are being played solely to make profit out of the pockets of the Australian soccer public and the NSL isn't being taken into consideration. We've acted. Now it's up to them to use other players if they want but if they use our players it will be because they've met our conditions."

It is understood that when the NSL originally threatened to pull its players out of the national squads, ASF president Sir Arthur George, at present overseas, threatened to call an ASF meeting to expel the NSL's leadership, a move which would have led to the NSL disbanding.

However, the NSL is an incorporated body and only can be disbanded if the body itself makes a decision.

According to Pappasavas, if the ASF outlawed the NSL, the NSL would continue to operate.

Peter Sheehan, of ASF Marketing, seemed unperturbed about the NSL's bold move.

"The ASF is dealing with the matter and I believe that the players will take the field for Australia," he said.

"If not, I'll reschedule all the games to that the touring teams are playing against each other. Anyway, I've got another three overseas clubs on stand-by and some of their players are even bigger names than the ones already coming here. We'll make more money that way and only the NSL will suffer."

"The ASF has a contractual commitment to this international series and in no way will this situation be resolved by blackmail."

It is rumored that one of the overseas teams on stand-by is the mighty Italian First Division club AS Roma.

Sheehan had firm views on the dispute over the $240,000 sponsorship money claimed to be owed to the NSL by Pappasavas.

"They (the NSL) can claim whatever they want to but there is no contractual agreement between ASF Marketing and the NSL. The NSL did not accept the conditions of the sponsorship contract so it was dissolved. I was in the process of renegotiating with the NSL but they broke from a position of negotiation to one of threat. It's just blackmail. They're sticking us up on the highway with a gun in their hand."

"The problem lies with the ASF and NSL, not with ASF Marketing. If the ASF isn't able to meet its contractual obligations, then that's their problem. Whatever happens, there's no way that the soccer public is going to suffer."

If the impasse continues, Pappasavas said that the NSL would reschedule its league games and rather than go into limbo during the international series, would play NSL matches on weekends as well as continuing with the National Cup. He was adamant that the NSL would continue to enforce the ban it has placed on its players playing for Australia.

But what if the players rebel?

"Then we've got a problem," said Pappasavas.

John Constantine, the former Sydney Olympic president and current NSW federation president, is handling negotiations with the NSL on behalf of the ASF.

Spink top scorer as Vics win youth title

By PETER WINDSOR

Victoria retained the Australian under-19 soccer championships with a fighting 1-0 victory over South Australia at the National Sports Centre, Canberra, last week.

And Victoria's solitary goal came in the 88th minute from front-runner Ernie Tapai.

It is the second year in a row that Victoria has edged out South Australia in the final.

"It's one of the proudest days of my life," said Victoria's Director of Coaching, Tim White.

"I put the victory down to sheer hard work, discipline, team spirit — and above all, talented players."

An understandably disappointed South Australian coach Mike Wells still praised his charges.

"Yes, I'm disappointed — particularly as the goal looked to be offside," he said. "But you don't squeal," he said.

"I'm still happy that once more the boys made the final. That in itself is an achievement."

ACT came third, Western Australia fourth, Queensland fifth, Tasmania sixth, NSW seventh and Northern NSW last.

For NSW — and to some extent Queensland — the championships were a disaster.

For ACT, however, it was its greatest ever championship. And Canberra's was a talent-loaded side due mainly to the presence of ex-AIS youngsters and players from the Canberra Arrows youth team.

On a step by step basis this is how the teams progressed.

ROUND ONE

GROUP A: Victoria 1 (Spink) W.A. 1 (Burke); Queensland 3 (Barry, Armit, Carnavaas) NSW 1 (Hale).

GROUP B: South Australia 3 (Papadopoulos, O'Connor, Stamatiopoulos) d Tasmania 0; ACT 2 (Maricle, Bernali, Northern NSW 2 (Dennis) d Northern NSW.

ROUND TWO

GROUP A: Victoria 4 (Kotzianichalis, Spink, 2 Tasalos) d Queensland 2 (Barry, Soriglia); New South Wales 4 (Thornthwaite, 2 Drien, Lampropoulos) Western Australia 1 (Green).

GROUP B: ACT 1 (Bernali) d South Australia 1 (Miller); Tasmania 1 (Dennis) d Northern NSW.

ROUND THREE

GROUP A: Victoria 5 (Spink four, Markovos) NSW 0; Western Australia 2 (Nickolaie, Dowling) Queensland 1 (Barry).

GROUP B: ACT 5 (Lampond 2, Maricle, Kulcar, Bernali) Tasmania 1 (Richman); South Australia 2 (Pasegic, Miller) Northern NSW 1 (Cameron).

In the final round, the ACT gained third spot with a victory over Western Australia to the tune of 2-1. Kenyon scored for West Australia and Maricle and Lamond for Canberra.

Queensland had no difficulty in taking fifth place with a 3-1 win over Tasmania. Barry (2), Carnavaas, 2, Bassinwaigite and Byrne were Queensland's scorers while Dennis scored for Tasmania.

The match between the bottom teams was much closer, with NSW needing penalty kicks to beat Northern NSW after a 1-1 draw.

For the champion, Victoria, of course, it was a great team performance — one that striker Warren Spink (AIS) will long remember.

With seven goals to his credit, he was the championship's leading individual scorer.

The Victoria boys who made the double possible are:

Mirko Runje (AIS), Michael McLennan, (AIS), Alan Roodhouse, (Box Hill), Lucas Kotzianichalis (Springvale City), John Gabrielson (Heldelberg United), John Kaneoulis (South Melbourne Hellas), Con Kikios (South Melbourne Hellas), Claude Avian (Polonia), Warren Spink (AIS), Robert Markovic (Melbourne Croatia), Darryl White (Box Hill), Ernie Tapai (Melbourne), John Metaxas (Heldelberg United), Steve Tasalos (Heldelberg United), Theo Mitsou (South Melbourne Hellas) and Stuart Lee (Ringwood Wilhelmia).

JUVENTUS SET FOR PLUNDER DOWN UNDER!

By PAUL MOON

Juventus of Turin comes to Australia as the winner of the 1984 European Cup Winners' Cup.

The Italians play their first game in Australia, against Manchester United at the Sydney Cricket Ground on Wednesday, June 6.

They won the Cup Winners' Cup by beating Porto of Portugal 2-1 in the final in Basel last week, with goals by Beniamino Vignola and Zbigniew Boniek.

Juventus will play a three-match series against Australia (see programme, page 7) but first, the international season opens with Juventus and Italy's back four, he joined the Zebras from Atlanta in 1976 and made his international debut two years later. The only player to miss a penalty in a World Cup final.

Without detracting from the other tourists, Juventus undoubtedly will be the top drawcard. The reason is that it has men like these:

STEFANO TACCONI: Signed from Avellino to replace the legendary Dino Zoff, he kept clean sheets in each of his first four games. Has subsequently established himself among the Italian League's most consistent goalkeepers.

CLAUDIO GENTILE: A rugged, much-capped right back who was born in Libya; hence the nickname "Gadafi". He joined Juve from Varese in 1973. Positioning, concentration and strength of tackle mark him as one of the world's best defenders.

ANTONIO CARBONI: Long established as an integral part of both Juventus and Italy's back four, he joined the Zebras from Atlanta in 1976 and made his international debut two years later. The only player to miss a penalty in a World Cup final.

MASSIMO BONINI: A native of the tiny republic of San Marino, he had made 9 appearances for Italy's under 21 team before UEFA decreed him not eligible for "Azzurri". Now a naturalised Italian citizen, the exciting midfielder seems assured of a fine future.

SERGIO BRIO: A consistent stopper, who is particularly strong in the air, he has yet to win an international cap. Joined Juventus from Lecce in 1974, then went on to Pistoiese and helped them gain promotion from Serie C.

GAETANO SCIREA: One of the world's top sweepers, he was Italy's 1981 Footballer of the Year. Initially an inside forward, but converted to defender after moving from Atlanta to Juve in 1974.

CLAUDIO PRANDELLI: Another recruit from Atlanta (in 1979), though Cremonese was his original club. A midfielder who has yet to establish himself in Juve's star-studded line-up.

MARCO TARELLI: "Man of the Match" in the 1982 World Cup final, he was known for much of his career as a "hard man", having accumulated an appalling disciplinary record, but now widely acknowledged as a player of outstanding ability. Usually plays in midfield, but equally at home in a full back role.

PAULO ROSSI: Brilliant, but enigmatic, striker who earned permanent place in soccer history with heroic performances during World Cup of 1982, the year he was Europe's Footballer of the Year.

ZBIGNIEW BONIEK: Has been overshadowed somewhat by Michel Platini since the two joined Juventus in 1982, but is undoubtedly a player of immense ability. Probably the best player produced by Poland, his original club was Wistaw Lodz.

DOMENICO PENZO: Signed from Verona last year, despite approaching the veteran stage. He previously served Rome, Roma, Bari and Brescia. A hard-working striker.

BENIAMINO VIGNOLA: Signed from Avellino last year, but this utility player has had few opportunities in Juve's first team.

GIOVANNI TRAPATTONI (MANAGER): Won 17 caps for Italy as a left half and also was a member of AC Milan teams which won two European Champions Cups and the Cup Winners' Cup. After two years as Milan's chief coach he moved to Juventus in 1976 and must be regarded as a prominent figure during one of their most successful eras.

Big chance for the also-rans in Cup

By LAURIE SCHWAB

Everyone has a chance to win in the National Cup! With so many players on national team duty, the traditional giants have turned into pussy cats.

Even struggling Wollongong looks good for a victory when it meets St George Budapest at St George Stadium on Sunday.

And Sunshine-George Cross also stands a good chance in this competition, following its 3-0 victory over Juventus, and because of the inclusion of guest player Ross McLaren from Shrewsbury Town.

Sydney Hakoah, South Melbourne Hellas, St George and Sydney Olympic will field vastly weakened teams in the Cup — teams which will include many youth players. And so we have to look to the clubs not affected by the international series — clubs like George Cross, Melita Eagles, Brisbane City, Green Gully, Blacktown, Sydney Croatia, and also Canberra, although it will miss Tony Franken and Frank Farina.

Marconi also must be considered. It will miss Tony Henderson, Tom McCulloch and Joe Rizzotto, but it has a lot of players, so it may be able to cover the gaps adequately enough for the four-week Cup series.

The teams have been split into groups for this competition, as follows:

GROUP ONE: Adelaide City Juventus, Blacktown, Sydney Hakoah, West Adelaide Hellas.

GROUP TWO: Canberra, Melita Eagles, Penrith, Sydney Olympic.

GROUP THREE: APIA, Newcastle-Rosebud, St George Budapest, Wollongong.

GROUP FOUR: Brisbane City, Brisbane Lions, Marconi, Sydney Croatia.

GROUP FIVE: Green Gully, Heidelberg-Alexander, Melbourne Croatia, Makedonia.

GROUP SIX: Juventus, Footscray J.U.S.T., SM-Hellas, Sun-George Cross.

The six group winners plus the two best runners-up will qualify for the quarter-finals on June 4, 6, and 7.

The semi-finals will be played on Jun 9 and 10 and the final on June 16 or 17.

Bradley, Kosmina clear leaders

John Bradley of APIA has shot to a six point lead in our $1,500 Boral Bricks Player of the Year award.

Bradley's Man of the Match display against Penrith last Sunday enabled him to slip clear of young Canberra Arrows goalkeeper Tony Franken, who didn't poll any votes in the Arrows' clash with Sydney Croatia at Bruce Stadium. Bradley and Franken had been tied on 40 votes before last weekend's NSL round.

The next NSL round isn't until the weekend of June 23 and 24, and the current National Cup games don't count in this award, so Bradley can enjoy his star billing for at least a few more weeks.

John Kosmina's stunning hat-trick for Sydney City Hakoah against St. George Budapest last weekend keeps him three goals clear of Olympic's Peter Katholos in our Boral Bricks $1,000 Top Scorer award.

Leading votegetters:
40 — Bradley (APIA)

Bergers on top and Rosebud on way up

Heidelberg 2 N. Rosebud 1

Scorers: 0-1 Todd 2m, 1-1 Valentine 47m, 2-1 Patterson 87m pen.

Venue: Olympic Village. Referee: Bernie Upjohn 6. Cautions: Angele (H).

Newcastle-Rosebud quickly will play its way out of the relegation zone if the performance it put up against Heidelberg is any indication of its capabilities.

New coach Willie Gallagher has the side organised and has lifted the morale. The way it harried and hounded Heidelberg out of its rhythm in the first half, the team will provide headaches for even the well-established sides once the league re-starts in four weeks' time.

"I thought we had done enough to get a point. We applied ourselves well and Derek Todd deserves a lot of credit for plugging away for so long to keep their defence busy," Gallagher said.

"But the condition of the players' fitness told in the end. The side has not really been training properly for five weeks."

"That will improve in due course and with the commitment and determination the players are displaying I'm confident the tide will turn soon."

It took a penalty three minutes from the end to settle the issue and give Heidelberg the vital two points which took them to the top of the table for the first time this season.

The penalty, awarded for a foul by Ralph Maier on Scott Patterson just inside the box, was not disputed and Patterson himself made easy work of converting his fourth spotkick of the season.

But when everything is taken into consideration it was a cruel finish for a Newcastle side which had proved good value for its early lead and which continued to create openings even after it conceded the equaliser early in the second half.

Todd got the match off to a sensational start, nipping past the keeper to intercept and control a poor back pass from Ian Blackie and slot the ball away from inside the six-yard box after only two minutes.

To add to the early shock, Newcastle's tactics of closing down early on opponents in midfield and at the back put Heidelberg off its stride and the Bergers did not create their first real scoring chance until six minutes from the end of the half.

Even then, Steve Winn, put in the clear by Patterson, finished disappointingly, shooting straight at Clint Gosling when he had only the keeper to beat.

"Our first-half performance was disappointing," commented Heidelberg coach Brian Garvey after the match.

"But I think the players proved that there is character and a lot of team spirit at the club to keep plugging away the way we did."

Garvey helped the second-half revival by re-organising the side, putting on Joe Angele in place of a Mike Petersen who still was suffering the after-effects of flu.

Angele took up a defensive midfield position to curb the forward runs being made by Bernard Kerby. This allowed Theo Selemidis and Mike Valentine more freedom to back the attack.

Valentine got the equaliser for Heidelberg only two minutes into the second half, controlling a flick-on by Selemidis following a free kick from Charlie Yankos on the left to stall the ball high into the net from inside the six-yard box.

"The goal did Valentine a world of good. He had been quiet in the first half but he was much more prominent and full of himself after that goal," Garvey said.

Indeed, Valentine came close to adding a second goal, meeting a cross from the byline from Winn with a fierce header which slammed against the crossbar and back into play in the 65th minute.

Man of the Match: CHARLIE YANKOS (Heidelberg)

Just three minutes earlier, Jeff Oliver had pulled off the save of the match, stopping a piledriver from Todd who had worked his way clear of a defender with some clever footwork.

As a final point, the pettiness of some NSL referees continues to amaze me.

On this occasion, Bernie Upjohn, obviously fearing an invasion from the four pressmen at the game during the 90 minutes forced the reporters to take their chairs from where they were — clear off the touchline — to a place on the running track where the view of the field was seriously obstructed by the coaches' boxes.

I really believe he should have left his attention to detail for the game itself. If he wanted to observe Referees' Manual instructions to the letter his energy would have been better spent picking out a blatant foul and a Kerby handball inside the box instead of waving play-on and denying Heidelberg what looked like valid claims for penalties in the second half.

A dream return to George Cross for new coach Billy Wilkinson, and a dismal afternoon for Juventus coach John Margaritis!

George Cross was strengthened by guest player Ross McLaren, who arrived from England in the morning to join his brother Don in midfield. Despite the long flight, the Shrewsbury Town skipper has shown that he could be the key to George's revival, and once he settles down, this classy midfielder will be a problem for any opposition. Jim O'Reilly was back in the team after injury, as was Don McLaren who missed last week's game due to suspension, so Billy Wilkinson had a full squad to select from.

On the other hand, John Margaritis had his problems, and had to reshuffle his defence, due to the absence of suspended John Dowie and the injured Harry Hird. Replacements Vince Bannon and Edgar Campbell did reasonably well (particularly the latter), or at least as well as most of the Juventus regulars.

I think Juve's approach was all wrong. By adopting an ultra cautious approach, it allowed George Cross to gain confidence and establish a rhythm. Perhaps, had it adopted a more positive attitude and taken the game by the scruff of the neck, it may have intimidated its opponents, rather than letting them take control. Both Cullen and Zinni were too deep to be effective, and frontrunners Sweeney and Ward were easily contained by the George Cross back four, well marshalled by Jim O'Reilly.

Actually, it was amazing how much space, and consequently time, O'Reilly had to cut out through-balls and diagonal passes. Not once, during the 90 minutes, did Juventus push a man forward to close down the sweeper, and not once did it manage to draw him out of position!

Mind you, Juventus had so many players down on form, that perhaps even a different tactical approach may not have been sufficient to deny its less favored opponents this well-deserved victory.

Richard Miranda, Andrew Zinni, Joe Sweeney and Gary Ward were well below their best, and only evergreen Billy Rogers, left back Edgar Campbell and to some extent, Robert Cullen did rise above a generally below-par performance.

George Cross got on top in the middle of the park (thanks to the McLaren brothers, Gerry Bennett and Roger Bain), so it was not entirely unexpected that it went a goal up just on half time.

Ross McLaren was upended by Kevin Lloyd inside the area, and McLaren easily converted the resultant penalty.

The second half opened with some pressure from Juventus. Joe Sweeney blasted a powerful shot just past the post.

However, any hope Juventus may have had, was quashed in the 55th minute, when Ossie Laiff won the ball from Vince Bannon and his low cross was put away by Don McLaren.

The same player featured in the third goal, when his cross from the right wing was headed home by Bennett.

INJURED GREEDY FLOUNDERS

SC-Hakoah 4 St.G. Budap. 1

Scorers: Kosmina 25th, 88th & 90th, Kay 77th (H), Marton 83rd pen (S.G.).

Venue: St George Stadium. Cautions: O'Connor (H).

Referee: Ramplay 6.

It was far from an entertaining spectacle on Sydney's first real winter day, when traditional rivals Hakoah and St George Budapest clashed.

As it turned out the omens were right — the Blues took stern revenge for the Saints' nipping them on the line in the 1983 NSL championship race.

As so often in recent weeks, it was that man John Kosmina who stole the honors once again.

A hat-trick of goals, and the credit for creating another — what more can one ask for?

The Soccerroo captain opened his account with a 22-metre shot before half hour was over. Terry Greedy was very late getting down to it.

This was only a precursor of the sad proceedings of the afternoon for Australia's No. 1 goalie, playing with an infected leg.

Peter Scott

The Saints were completely out of touch. Badly missing David Skeen in defence, not very constructive in midfield and ineffective in attack, they tried manfully but without making much of an impression.

Surprisingly Hakoah was not at its entertaining, devastating best either.

At one stage I had the feeling that the Saints could salvage a point if only they managed to mount the occasional decent attack.

Almost immediately, however, Kosmina woke us from our reveries by making his way down the right wing, flicking the ball across to Kay who headed home past a mesmerised Greedy.

Man of the Match: JOHN KOSMINA (SC-Hakoah)

A moment of flickering hope materialised for the home side when referee Ramplay judged Robertson to have pushed Marton inside the Hakoah penalty area, just as Tony Pezzano safely fisted the ball away into midfield.

Marton easily converted from the penalty spot.

Surprisingly, instead of perking the Saints up, the disputed penalty conversion got Hakoah into a mean mood, with Kosmina scoring characteristically from a half chance which Greedy got to but failed to stop from dribbling over the line.

Just to rub it in, Murray's good work on the wing was converted into the fourth goal by a Kosmina shot from 10 metres out right on the final whistle.

There were some interesting features.

Such as the favorable light in which Tony Pezzano showed up when compared with his rival for the Soccerroo goalkeeping position.

Greedy had pain-killing shots and was far from fit for this game — and would perhaps have been better off not to have played at all.

But, with the dearth of available talent in the Saints' ranks, who can blame Frank Ark for calling on him?

Both clubs have suffered major financial handicaps in the past couple of years and one must state that Hakoah has been much the more successful in building a team on a shoestring.

Only John Kosmina has cost a transfer fee, while Lee, Gomez, Fletcher, Barnes, de Marigny, O'Connor and Pezzano all developed into accomplished players with the club's minor grade teams.

David Lowe flicked a free kick by Tommy McCulloch through a sea of legs to give Marconi the lead after only three minutes of the match in what most believed would be a one-sided affair at Bossley Park.

However, this goal stood as the only difference between Marconi and Lions at the end of 90 minutes of the most forgettable exhibition of soccer. Marconi looked good for about 10 minutes at the start of the match, then slowly but surely the visitors took hold of the proceedings in midfield and looked to have the better of the game for most part.

What happened to that brisk start that gave Marconi the lead and what happened to that midfield of Marconi that did so well in the past few outings at Marconi Stadium is anyone's guess.

I suggest that the introduction of Attilio Carbone, an out-of-form player, was an error. In fact, Carbone looked completely worn out by the time the game was 60 minutes old but no replacement was found or at least offered.

Mark Jankovics struggled up front and I am sure will be very happy to return to midfield where he played with such success earlier this year. With Tommy McCulloch making an unusual number of errors, it was Craig Mason who tried to settle things down but with little success.

With its engine room coughing and spluttering Marconi rarely offered an organised attack. And while the disgruntled Marconi captain Tony Henderson stamped his feet and roared his disapproval. Brisbane Lions came forward looking for an opening.

Marconi midfield dreadful

With Russell Stewart commanding proceedings in the middle of the Park, Lions had a lot to say for most of the match with Joe Cairney having an ideal opportunity to put the visitors on equal terms. He managed to beat Craig Mason then faced James but shot straight at the keeper from an angle.

Marconi could have had the game sewn up after Lowe broke through in the 35th, but his cross to Rod Brown was wasted by the tall striker. Only a few minutes later, Robert Farrow was at the feet of Brown to save. Both of Marconi's raids came after good work by Mason.

With the wind at its back, Lions went strongly at Marconi's goal. Russell Stewart belted a scorching drive past Bruce James in the 56th only to see his shot rebound off the crossbar, then in came Cairney, on the left side of the penalty area, pushing his shot past James, only to see Paul Carter clear off the line.

Marconi could have saved face in the last five minutes. Joe Rizzotto's shot was just saved by Farrow, then in came Rizzotto with yet another break before finding Jankovics metres from the line. Farrow dived at the feet of Jankovics to save.

With seconds to go, Jankovics broke through again and set up McCulloch to face Farrow. The Marconi youngster attempted to go around the keeper and, cool as you like, pushed the ball over the byeline!

As if it wasn't hard enough to lose almost a complete side, Wollongong has to play week after week against its former players. On this occasion it was Chris Dunlevy and he played his best match to date!

Adrian Alston did manage to unearth Alex Bundalo and draw Fontana and Beggs back to the ranks as well as keep Vardareff, Willis, Gaffney and Vlietstra from last year's side, but it will take time before the side can reap the benefits of playing together.

the injured Charlie Villani and guest player David Mitchell, brushed aside Footscray JUST at Olympic Sportsfield.

Both Juve goals came in the first half. JUST lost injured Brian O'Donnell early, and so Dragan Lacmanovic, who had arrived from Yugoslavia that morning, got his first run. Mitchell had a big bearing on the game in the first half. The tall Glasgow Rangers and Socceroo striker was in a menacing mood as he bustled across the forward lines.

He developed an immediate understanding with Joe Mullen, who helped put Juve into the lead in the 27th minute with a defence-splitting pass that set up Steve Maxwell.

Mitchell was the provider of Juve's second, in the 34th minute. He won a 50-50 challenge which resulted in the ball rolling into the path of the charging Villani who fired a low drive wide of Dennis Boland in the JUST goal.

Villani, after missing seven matches because of a broken toe, was an authoritative figure in midfield during the first half.

Footscray couldn't counter Villani's touches of brilliance in the first half and found it hard to breach Juve's tight marking and fierce-tackling defence.

Chris Bekiaris and Lujic worked hard for JUST but had precious little to show for it in the end.

Lujic had the best chance in the 34th minute when he slipped behind Juve defender Joe Cecere and had McNally, the Juve goalkeeper, at his mercy. But McNally courageously blocked the shot.

Lucchesi hits four

Man of the Match:
CLAUDE LUCCHESI

Makedonia 5 WA-Hellas 1
Scorers: Lucchesi 27th, 50th, 54th & 65th, Heys 78th (Makedonia); Konstantopoulos 89th (WA).
Venue: Connor Reserve.
Cautions: Heys (Mak).
Referee: Sam Zoumas 6.

Claude Lucchesi hadn't scored before this match. Now he's Makedonia's top scorer of 1984 so far.

Almost everything he touched turned into a goal. Not only did he score four himself, but he also provided the pass from which Graham Heys notched Makedonia's fifth. National coach Frank Arok, who had dropped Lucchesi from the national squad, watched him on TV and declared: "He was like some Brazilian."

Gary Cole missed at least five, but Opasinis had one disallowed over offside, goalkeeper Gary Sproul saved from Zarko Odzakovic and Lucchesi; Mousoulis cleared one from Lucchesi off the goal line; Heys, facing an open goal, shot too high; Sproul saved from Lucchesi, and Odzakovic failed to release the ball when Lucchesi was in the middle, unmarked, begging for it.

At the other end, Tim Brown hit the post, and West Adelaide managed a few other close things, so the score easily could have been about 15-2.

Last time these teams met — on a waterlogged Connor Reserve pitch in the second round of 1983 — Makedonia won 3-0, with a hat-trick by Peter Ollerston.

West Adelaide Hellas's form this year suggested there might have been a marked improvement, but not so on this performance.

Lucchesi and Cole had as much room as they wanted in the middle, which was an indictment of Hellas's centre-backs Neil McGachey and Graham Honeyman. Although both are highly talented and eminently experienced, they stopped virtually nothing.

I believe it was a mistake to take off big Chris Manou during the second half. If nothing else, at least he provided a powerful presence in the middle, and while he was on the field, Honeyman and McGachey had cover in front of them.

But with Honeyman moving forward to help build attacks, and none of the remaining midfielders capable of playing defensively, Hellas was ripe for the picking.

And make no mistake — the bones of the Hellas players were picked clean during the one-way traffic of the second half. It was as if a swarm of ballsters were hovering over the Hellas defence, eager for a big feed.

When Ian McGregor was switched from left back to the left wing, and Hellas relied mainly on the offside trap as it pushed forward, hoping for a few goals, Makedonia did virtually as it liked. But by then, the match was over anyway.

Had Cole not missed so many, the result would have been the most embarrassing in NSL history.

But Hellas had at least one good player — George Konstantopoulos — who scored his seventh goal of the season. He's tremendously fast, totally tireless and lethal in the penalty area: a Soccerro of the future.

Makedonia now is unbeaten for four weeks and according to Lucchesi, for one, it must be regarded as favorite for the National Conference championship.

Robbie Dunn and Ian Dobson are playing powerfully in defence, as is George McMillan (as usual). The fans who were delighted enough just to see the ball going into the net so often, probably don't realise that it was Dobson's aerial presence in the penalty area that contributed to two of the goals.

Odzakovic and Zoran Illoski provided a lot of good forward passes from the midfield, and Heys — who, like Dunn, was facing his former club for the first time — was much more dangerous than usual.

Makedonia started with an unchanged team, although George Campbell was back after injury, while Hellas featured three changes — McGachey, Stamatiopoulos and McGachey taking the places of Mousoulis, Atsalar and Baker. Opasinis had a setback early when he collided heavily with Manou and needed treatment, and in the 10th minute, goalkeeper Sproul was given a taste of what was to come when he had to pounce to save successive shots by Odzakovic and Lucchesi at close range.

Then Illoski's square pass gave Cole the perfect scoring chance, but the ball bounced off Cole's foot and was lost.

It was in the 27th minute that Makedonia took the lead. Odzakovic played a neat, short through ball which Lucchesi ran onto and Lucchesi's shot hit the bottom of the post, with the Hellas players appealing for offside. Lucchesi latched onto the rebound and belted it into the net for the first goal.

Odzakovic set up Cole again in the 34th minute, with a great pass, but in lobbing the keeper, Cole also lobbed the goal!

At the 40th minute, Konstantopoulos was cutting the ball square across goal in some dangerous attacking moves. In one such attack, Tim Brown, at the far post, hit the woodwork.

He made no mistake however, five minutes after the interval. Dobson headed the ball forward, John Papazoglou blocked it, it bounced to Lucchesi and there was No. 2.

Hellas coach Sam Salabadi replaced Papazoglou with Mousoulis almost immediately, and later brought on Baker for Manou.

Mousoulis played well at right back, but only minutes after he had come on, Cole galloped away on a long forward ball, to face Sproul who, however, got a hand at the shot.

So it was left to Lucchesi again, to score the third. A corner by Heys was headed on by Lucchesi and Lucchesi scored from an angle.

In the 61st minute, Illoski made a dashing run down the right, got past Manou and cut along the by-line before sending the ball square into the goal area. Sproul and Lucchesi met it together, Sproul couldn't hold it and Lucchesi, while down, managed a shot which was blocked on the line by Mousoulis.

But Lucchesi got his fourth only four minutes later. Running onto a pass from Odzakovic, he rounded Sproul and shot into the open goal.

A shot by Nick Malavassos at the other end, brought a one-handed save from Steve Potter, and George McMillan booted it clear, to start yet another Makedonia attack. Ljube Petrovski cut the ball square to Cole, who miskicked. Opasinis was on the line to make amends for Cole's mistake, but the goal was disallowed because Opasinis was offside.

Then Lucchesi headed the ball down for Heys who swung it past Sproul while controlling it, but his shot was too high.

Heys did however, score his first goal for Makedonia in the 78th minute. Lucchesi spotted Heys unmarked in the middle and delivered an accurate cross which Heys belted through Sproul's legs for goal No. 5.

It should have been six when Lucchesi called for the ball unmarked, as Odzakovic worked his way down the left, but instead of passing, Odzakovic tried to score himself, and lost the ball.

Still Makedonia surged forward. Cole broke clear again, almost from the half time, and ran all the way to the goalkeeper who managed somehow to block the shot. The rebound was still within Cole's reach, and he tried a header this time, which bounced wide of the post.

Lucchesi turned past McGachey, and was foisted by Sproul, before Konstantopoulos got Hellas's consolation goal with a long shot that dipped in just under the bar.

Makedonia won the youth league game 2-0 against NUNAWADING with goals by Lupco Galevski and Nick Kotevski. Ratings:

Two sensational goals in a mere 60 seconds were enough to give Sydney Croatia a 2-1 consolation for having lost coach Mick Jones during the week. Jones resigned over an ugly incident following the previous game.

For the remainder of the game it was the most one-sided affair seen in Canberra this season.

Depending on your point of view you castigate Canberra for its ineptitude and lack of finishing or praise Croatia for resolute defence in withstanding incredible pressure for over 90 minutes.

I choose to castigate Canberra.

They were far and away the better side but seemed to have no answer to Croatia's blanket defensive tactics.

Their main method of attack was straight down the middle — usually with the high ball — which Croatia consistently handled with ease.

If one had timed the frequency of free-kicks — and corners — that came Canberra's way one could say they occurred almost every one-and-a-half to two minutes.

Earlier front-runner Alan Reis had nodded a cross just over the bar and later in the first half a Steve Bryant corner totally deceived goalkeeper Watson but right back Brett Watson cleared off the line.

With but minutes to the break remaining a John Mihailides cross was headed home by Canberra's Peter Burke. The goal looked good, but was disallowed for offside.

Bradley stars, Gray scores

APIA 1 Penrith 0
Scorers: Ian Gory 24th.
Venue: St George Stadium.
Cautions: Jackson, Cotton (both Penrith), Brown, Bertogna (both APIA).
Referee: Doug Kennie 6.

After a period of scrappily and at times indifferent play, APIA took the lead through an opportunist goal.

In the 24th minute Mark Pullen received a poor clearance and quickly sidefooted the ball to unmarked Ian Gray who turned, ran into the penalty area and beat keeper Michael Gibson with a drive that turned out to be the match winner.

Excitement for the rest of the half was at such a premium that the crowd was prepared to cheer anything even Waterspoon's clearance which hit the magic water bucket and sprayed everyone on Smith's reserve bench.

There was no lack of controversial refereeing decisions.

Among others, in the 52nd minute APIA's roving midfielder Ian Gray was upended in the penalty area but nothing was given.

John Bradley's increased involvement on the right flank spelled trouble every time he touched the ball and in the 81st minute he nearly got APIA's second. Out on the right Tony Genovesi shuffled past Paul Daley, and crossed to Bradley whose header from 10 metres was first parried by goalie Gibson then clawed back off the line.

Arno Bertogna had a fine game in defence for APIA and his timely sliding tackle in the 88th minute foiled a certain goal.

Fullback Vic Bozanic ghosted into attack and was afforded a clear shot at goal off Bradley's cross but the ball whistled past the post. Right on full time Peter Tredinnick carried the ball through Penrith's stand-off defence but blasted his shot wide.

'No comment' — McKendry

Brisb. City 1 SM-Hellas 0
Scorers: Bromfield 25th.
Venue: Spencer Park.
Cautions: Hughes (BC).
Referee: Bill Montevardo 7.

A horrendous mistake by Hellas goalkeeper Gary Clayton gave Brisbane City its first home win in 13 matches and nearly 12 months at Spencer Park.

Clayton attempted to punch a poorly directed cross from City fullback Gary Bromfield but mis-timed his effort. Clayton's fist completely missed the ball and the cross dropped into the goal.

It was bad goalkeeping all round from the Hellas custodian. Although he was under slight pressure from City striker Stephen Glockner, and the conditions were wet and slippery, the easiest thing to do would have been to palm the cross over the crossbar for a corner.

But to go up punching one-sided is inexcusable.

No doubt Hellas coach Len McKendry was disgusted in the display. In the washdown by some Hellas supporters this week this loss no doubt will be blamed on him and not the goalkeeper.

But McKendry refused to talk to the media after the game and repeatedly offered only a stern "No comment".

The win was City's first since they downed APIA 3-2 on July 10 last year.

But on chances, this match could have been an eight or nine goal thriller.

Hellas hit the woodwork twice and City once. Hellas also was denied two seemingly certain goals by brilliant Kim Wishart saves while City wasted up to four dream opportunities by shooting wide or high.

After negative and boring displays for the past month a team re-shuffle, which included the dropping of off-season signing Bob Mountford and the call-up of Alan Hughes, City finally looked at attacking off.

Coach Joe Gilroy gave his team a simple match plan. He told his players: "If you hesitate this side will grind you into the ground."

With that in mind, City threw players forward, attempting to force Hellas back. With up to five City players charging goalwards, Hellas was taken by surprise in the opening stages and City and the home side had four good scoring opportunities in the first nine minutes. Bromfield, Glockner, Swan and Mengotti all could have been early scorers.

Halford and Egan combined to push through Ken Murphy. He outstripped Swan and fired a shot which was again brilliantly saved by Wishart.

City was given its dream goal in the 25th minute and once it got its noses in front, its determination carried it to victory.

City, superbly directed by Frank Pimblett, began playing the football it last displayed in the early rounds of last year's competition.

With Ken Swan, Frank Mengotti and Bobby Hamilton working like Terrier dogs, and Glockner displaying the touches and turns which won him national youth honors, City looked a dangerous outfit.

The home team, seeing the dominance of Steve Blair and John Yzendoorn in the middle, chose to attack the flanks. And Bobby Russell and Kris Kalitaditis had no answer to the speed of Bromfield, Hamilton, Mengotti and Hamilton.

City swung the ball wide then back again and down the other side until it pierced the Hellas backline. But many times the work was wasted by lack of composure on the final shot.

But Hellas made it a real game by refusing to hang back and defend doggedly. It pushed forward at any opportunity, chasing the equaliser.

Davidson and Halford did untold work chasing the seemingly possessed City midfield.

Halford cracked a great shot in injury time of the first half, but saw his attempt acrobatically tipped over by Wishart.

Then Davidson headed onto the crossbar six minutes after the break.

Dog Brown also put a second half attempt onto the woodwork. Hellas finally got the ball into the net in the 69th minute when Egan put away a Russell freekick, but referee Bill Montevardo — on the instruction of his linesman — ruled Egan had been offside, a decision the Hellas players seemed to accept.

after the linesman had flagged.

And let me cast no aspersions on the performance — in his NSL debut, of referee, Vince Celestino Unpopular with Arrows' fans and knowing he was being watched by NSL appointments referee, Tony Boskovic, he made an impressive debut.

In the second half Canberra continued to press just as hard but it wasn't until just four minutes from full-time that Farina, ghosting in from the right-side deadball line, crossed for Hilton Phillips to fire into the roof of the net.

Arrows coach Doug Collins had substituted Bryant for Gibson (which surprised me, as a felt Bryant was by no means the worst player on the park) and later Phillips for Perinovic.

Penrith's Willie Wallace further reflected that his side didn't work hard enough up front to score.

He added: "The appointment of a local boy to referee our matches creates extra unnecessary pressures. To ensure that he doesn't appear biased he is harder on us."

Melita Eagles, largely due to a brilliant goalkeeping performance by Alex McPherson, held Sydney Olympic to a scoreless draw.

Man of the Match:
ALEX MCPHERSON
(Melita Eagles)

McPherson has conceded only nine goals in 12 games. His best effort came in the 51st minute when he brilliantly saved a low goal-bound five-metre shot from Nick Theodorakopoulos.

Sydney Olympic, led by its national front-line of Marshall Soper, Peter Katholos and Jim Patikas, looked dangerous on forward movements but lacked finishing in front of goal.

Katholos almost broke the deadlock in the 77th minute.

His low drive was parried by McPherson. From the ensuing corner, Katholos received the ball and his scorching 15 metre shot rattled the post.

Melita's back four of Kenny Wilson, Howard Tredinnick, Colin McAusland and Bobby McGinn were in fine form for the home side and continually broke down threatening Olympic raids.

Melita coach Raul Blanco was delighted with the result and praised the team's defensive effort.

"They had three shots at goal in the 90 minutes. A sign of a good team is that they can defend as well as attack," he said.

Manfred Schaefer, the Sydney Olympic supremo, was disappointed with the lack of finishing from his team.

"If our Australian front line of Patikas, Katholos and Soper can't score against Melita how will they score against Juventus, Manchester United and the other teams in the coming International Tournament?" he asked.

Goalkeepers' final

EVERTON 2 (Sharp, Gray), WATFORD 0.
Crowd 100,000, English FA Cup final, Wembley.

EVERTON: Southall 9, Stevens 7, Ratcliffe 7, Mountfield 7, Bailey 6, Stovon 9, Reid 8, Heath 7, Sharp 8, Gray 7, Richardson 7.

WATFORD: D. Sibley 6, Tarry 6, Sinnott 5, Price 3 (Atkinson 70th), Taylor 8, Jackett 7, Callaghan 2, Johnson 3, Rallly 7, Barnes 5.

Sadly, perhaps, for everyone other than Merseysiders, Watford, the sentimental favorite, was comprehensively and professionally beaten by the book-makers' favorites in the 1984 FA Cup final.

And it could all have ended so differently, if only Watford had been able to take advantage of its superiority in the opening 15 minutes or so when Neville Southall's wonderful reflexes and Les Taylor's narrow miss were all that prevented the Hornets from taking the lead.

But, Callaghan had a nightmare of a game. Johnston was strangely subdued, and Barnes, apart from forcing Southall into a desperation stop with his feet, never shone as an England winger should.

Everton weathered the early storm, then grabbed a goal as Barnes lost Graeme Sharp, who stabbed the ball past an astonished Steve Sherwood, who seemed rooted to the spot.

Sherwood had never looked happy. Surprisingly for a man of his height he is strangely reluctant to catch the ball and his punching is reminiscent of a spinster defending her honor with a handbag.

In fact the whole story of the game revolves around the performances of the two goalkeepers. Southall kept Everton alive, as indeed he has all season, with his saves in the opening period, and then turned the game with a superlative save in the second half, when Watford urgently needed an equaliser.

Kenny Jackett must have thought his cunning chip would find George Rellly lurking menacingly by the far post, having cleared Southall, but the goalkeeper plucked the ball out of the air with one hand and then grabbed it with both on the way down, whilst Jackett stood, mouth agape, marvelling at such stunning prestidigitation.

A mere three minutes later, poor Sherwood went up for a cross, caught it and had it ferociously headed out of his hands by Andy Gray (who is five inches shorter than Sherwood, by the way).

It was the bravest of strikes by the bravest of strikers, who has often paid painfully for his temerity in a long career with Dundee United, Wolves and now Everton.

The match was beyond Watford's reach by then, with Trevor Steven — Everton's big success, whose cross it was that brought Sherwood undone — toying with the inexperienced Neil Price down the right.

Price of course had come in for Watford's club captain, Wilf Roston, out through suspension and sorely missed, and eventually Graham Taylor woke up and substituted Price for Paul Atkinson, pushing Welsh International Kenny Jackett to the full back position.

Watford has long been criticised by the experts and the purists for its 'long ball' game, and sadly, the last half hour of this forgettable game only served to strengthen the criticism.

Centre-half Steve Terry inevitably backed-passed to Sherwood, sometimes from as far as 30 yards, and Sherwood would stand, equally inevitably, with the ball in his hands, as everyone ran away from him, before he gave it the big wellie up the park, from where the Everton defenders gleefully belted it back again.

The game didn't end so much as peter out miserably, and for once in my soccer-watching life I found myself longing for the final whistle.

None of which of course disturbed the deliriously happy Everton fans, and now, with the League championship, the Milk Cup and the FA Cup all safely back on Merseyside, all Scousers — Red and Blue alike — are looking forward to the Reds bringing back the European Cup on May 31.

KAT'S CORNER

with PETER KATHOLOS

'B' SQUAD TOP-CLASS

This weekend the big international series gets underway, something supporters, players and officials all over Australia have been waiting for.

In the next few weeks there are going to be some great games between Australia "A" and "B" against the touring team — Juventus, Iraklis, Manchester United, Glasgow Rangers and Nottingham Forest. Boy, are the tourists going to be tough opposition!

Personally, I'm absolutely delighted to be back in the national team and I'm really looking forward to playing with the "B" team against these great overseas sides.

Few can argue that the "B" team boasts some very talented players. In fact, I've got no doubts at all that there's little to choose between the "A" and "B" teams.

During last week's "B" squad training camp in Melbourne, we beat Melbourne Croatia 5-2 and Heidelberg Alexander 1-0 and it was obvious to me just how keen and enthusiastic all the players are to do well.

Just remember that this international series is going to have a big bearing on the 20 players picked by Frank Arkot to go on the Socceroos' proposed world tour at the end of the year.

And the "B" team coaches, Eddie Thomson and John Margaritis, also are keen to do well. The whole squad is really together. I'm confident that we'll produce good results.

All the lads are looking forward to getting good public support. Hopefully the fans will flock to these games in their thousands.

Poor Arno Bertogna

What about the sorry situation Arno Bertogna, the APIA stopper, finds himself in?

He was fighting hard to get into the national team and just when he makes it, he finds out that he can't get time off work. How unlucky can you get?

I really can't understand the attitude of some employers. If Arno had been a cricketer or a Rugby League player selected to represent his country, I'll bet you that he would have got time off. But not for soccer!

I experienced the same problem late in 1982. And I was working for Philips Industries at the time, the sponsors of the National League!

I wonder if an official letter from the ASF to Arno's employer would make any difference. It's worth a try.

National disaster?

The National Cup is going to be played during this big international series and after talking to a few soccer fans in Melbourne last week, it seems that the general opinion is that the Cup will bomb out as a drawcard.

The one benefit to clubs of running the Cup while so many of their top players are unavailable due to national team duty, is that a lot of youngsters can be blooded. And the established players not in the national squads will be kept ticking and maintain match fitness thanks to the National Cup.

But I reckon that the National Cup should never have been scheduled at the same time as these internationals. It's just an idea, but what's wrong with playing the Cup under lights midweek, after the international series is over?

It works in Sydney's Rugby League where the Tooth's Cup is run midweek and there are enough good grounds, well floodlit, to cope with a National Cup being run along these lines.

It's not just the greats who always are great!

Some people remember results. They'll tell you with unerring precision all the results of Manchester United on its 1967 tour.

Or was in 1968...? I am below average with dates and even results — unless they stand out for some reason.

Even old line-ups escape me. But I have no difficulty recalling some of the greats who had graced touring teams to Australia since 1960.

Remarkably enough, it's not always the most famous and most celebrated stars who shine on these off-season tours.

Going back over the years — more years than you care to go back on — some giants step out of the past: Matthews, Law, Yachin, Pele, Albert, Neeskens, Beckenbauer.

They all appeared in Australia and, in Sydney anyway, failed to cause all the predicted and expected excitement.

If I cast my mind back on some 30 years or more of international soccer, it's some other names that I remember fondly.

The first, in my time anyway, was Bobby Langdon, that brilliant winger of the English FA team of 1951 who turned out to be the main architect of the famous 17-0 win over Australia.

Langdon was so irresistible on that day that the Australian fullback marking him halfway through the second half, simply walked off the pitch.

Langdon, of Bolton Wanderers, did play a number of times for England — but never reached the immortal heights of a Finney or a Matthews.

Except on that 1951 Australian tour!

Then I jump to the Rapid team of 1955 in which two brothers, the Komers, were as dazzling strikers as you wish to see.

Rapid of Vienna came to Australia with a huge array of stars. We all bubbled with excitement when we heard of the arrival of such giants as Zeman, Hanappi or Dienst.

Yet, at the Sydney Sportsground, it was the Komers brothers who put on a show fit for a three-ring circus: At one stage of the second half, facing NSW, they took the ball down some 80 metres to the goal — by passing it between them in the air.

In the post-Federation era my first superstar was Torpedo Moscow's midfielder, Brednev, in 1965.

This tall, powerful fellow, built like a middle-weight boxer, arrived totally unheralded, as did the rest of Torpedo. Nobody in Australia knew the names of their players until after their landing at Mascot.

Then, in the first Sydney match, Brednev assumed control and put on a midfield display the like of which one sees every 10 years or so.

A year later I was stunned to see Brednev missing from the Soviet World Cup team in England. As they didn't have any player half his class, I could only assume that he was either injured — or out of favor with the authorities.

Joki of Slovan Bratislava is another I will remember for a long time.

Bratislava, like other top teams, was brought out here by the now defunct Prague club, mainly its two stalwarts, George Warner and John Domaybi.

Bratislava was a polished, occasionally brilliant side with world stars such as Schreifl — but in the Sydney matches the man who stole the show was its tall, elegant dark-haired playmaker Joki — a Czechoslovak international though never quite the star one would have expected.

Bobby Charlton stands out for me from the 1967 Manchester United team — and mainly because of a display of his against Queensland in Brisbane.

I forget a scorenow — it was big — but I won't forget the way Charlton was spraying his passes 40 metres, with clinical precision and then, for good measure, thundered a 33-metre pleydriver past the sprawling Ross Kelly in goal.

I saw Charlton a few times during the 1966 World Cup and then again in the final of the 1968 European Cup — but I shall always remember his Brisbane display.

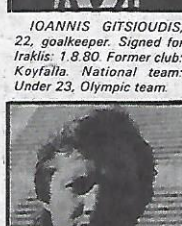

About the same time, possibly a few months later, we welcomed Japan to these shores — and with them that remarkable central striker, Kamamoto.

In Sydney he gave a preview of his prowess — and a few days later in Adelaide he destroyed Australia, earning an ovation from the crowd which actually carried him off the field.

Kamamoto was used to prove his class. He was voted to be the best player at the 1968 Mexico City Olympics and, in my view, is possibly the best Asian player of all times.

IOANNIS GTSIOUDIS, 22, goalkeeper. Signed for Iraklis: 1.8.80. Former club: Koyfalla. National team: Under 23, Olympic team.

GEORGE KARAIKOS, 29, forward. Signed for Iraklis: 1.8.81. Former club: Ethnikos Pireas, MIK Hungary.

PANOS MAYRIDIS, 25, defender. Signed for Iraklis: 1.10.79. National team: Greek youth.

'Roos v. Spain?

Australia will meet either Spain, Scotland, Wales or Iceland in the final stages of the next World Cup qualifying series, providing it first tops the Oceania group.

And three-time title-holder Italy will host the 1990 Soccer World Cup. The Soviet Union, the only other bidder for the site, lost against the Italians in a vote held by the FIFA executive board.

For the 1986 World Cup, the Oceania winner was to have played against the runner-up of a tournament between the second-placed teams of three European groups.

But the latest decision by FIFA simplifies the qualification process.

Now, two of the three runners-up will play each other to decide one of the final places for the 1986 World Cup finals, and the second-placed team in European Group Seven will meet the Oceania winner.

Group Seven comprises Spain, Scotland, Wales and Iceland.

South African connection

What do Gary Bailey and Richard Miranda have in common?

Bailey is the goalkeeper of Manchester United; Miranda (B.U. Juventus) is a mid-fielder in the Australian B squad. Give up?

The answer is: both played for Wits University, in South Africa.

Bailey left South Africa in 1978 to sign as a professional with United.

Miranda went from South Africa to Charlton Athletic in England, hoping to break into the big-time there.

Charlton offered him a contract, but he was unable to get a British work permit, so he went to Australia instead, to join Preston-Makedonia.

After a stint there, he joined Box Hill in the Victorian State League, before being bought by B.U. Juventus early this year.

Now he has emerged as one of the most prominent midfielders in the National League.

Whereas Miranda is a native South African, Bailey was born in England, but his family moved to South Africa soon after he was born.

WORLD SERIES SOCCER

Rangers ahead of Celtic

By PAUL MOON

Despite the emergence of Aberdeen and Dundee United in recent years as powers both domestically and in Europe and the veneration rightly extended to Queen's Park for their historical importance, there are but two great institutions of Scottish soccer — Glasgow Celtic and Glasgow Rangers.

Supporters of the two clubs can never be expected to agree which has the best overall record, but as 37 times Scottish Champions, compared with Celtic's 33 successes (out of 85 titles at stake), Rangers' claim is substantial.

In addition, the Light Blues have won the Scottish FA Cup and Scottish League Cup 24 and 11 times respectively.

Allegiances are formed almost exclusively on religious lines. Rangers' following is practically solely Protestant, Celtic's nearly purely Catholic. Neither club does much to discourage this sectarianism.

Rangers refuse to sign Catholic players and though Celtic have long included Protestants on their playing staff, it is the tricolor of Eire which provocatively flies over the Parkhead stands; not the Union Jack.

The intensity of competitiveness on the paddock and religious bigotry on the terraces are the prime reasons for Celtic v Rangers being the most bitter and enduring rivalry in world soccer.

Their continued success, plus the fact there are more Protestants than Catholics in Scotland, combine to make Rangers that country's most popular club and they participated in four matches which broke British attendance records — a game other than international or cup final (148,270 v Hibernian, Scottish Cup semi final, 1948), league game (118,567 v Celtic, 1939), Scottish League Cup game (107,447 v Celtic, 1985) and friendly fixture (104,493 v Eintracht Frankfurt, 1961).

Unfortunately, a lunatic fringe of their supporters has constantly sullied the Light Blues' name.

In Europe it is the Cup Winners' Cup which has provided most success for Rangers. Defeated in the very first final by Fiorentina (1961) and by Bayern Munich at the same stage six years later, Rangers made it third time lucky when beating Moscow Dynamo in Barcelona to win the trophy in 1972.

Rangers however have made little impact in the Champions' Cup — silverware which has already graced the Celtic board-

Having completed the first stage of the revival under Jock Wallace, salvaging a domestic trophy from the 1983-84 campaign, Rangers will be hoping for a sustained assault on the League Championship next term and then credibility as a European power.

Should the momentum be maintained, and there is no apparent reason why it should not, Australian fans will be seeing a team on the threshold of yet another exciting era.

First team squad: NICKY WALKER: A great favorite of manager Jock Wallace, who signed him three times — for Leicester City from Elgin City, for Motherwell from Leicester and now Rangers from Motherwell (for $100,000 plus two players). A former Scottish youth international, he is a tall, commanding goalkeeper.

PETER McCLOY: This 37-year-old veteran is the only survivor of Rangers' 1972 European Cup Winners' Cup triumph, having joined the club from Motherwell two years earlier. A model of consistency and dedication, he won four full international caps in 1973.

ALLY DAWSON: A dyed-in-the-wool Rangers man, having joined them from Johnstone High School in 1975, he is able to play at either left or right back. Was recalled for international duty last season, after a three-year absence.

SCOTT FRASER: Tipped

for the big time, this 20-year-old right back joined Rangers only last year from Haddington.

DAVID MACKINNON: Made a remarkable recovery after having a kidney removed in 1980. A stylish left back, he started with Arsenal, moved to Partick Thistle and joined Rangers for $60,000 two years ago.

JOHN MCCLELLAND: The ideal captain — determined, intelligent and always leading through example, he joined Rangers from Mansfield Town in 1981, following a $180,000 transfer. Was one of Northern Ireland's greatest successes during its 1982 World Cup venture.

DAVE MCPHERSON: A member of Scotland's UEFA Youth Tournament winning side of 1982, he has been likened to Liverpool's Alan Hansen for his elegance and coolness in defence. Moved to Rangers from Gartsholm Juveniles four years ago.

CRAIG PATERSON: Son of John Paterson, a Hibernian player in the 1950s, he left the Edinburgh team when Rangers paid a club record $450,000 transfer fee in 1982. A Scotland under-21 international centre half.

GREGOR STEVENS: A rugged back four player, who served a six-month suspension after being ordered off four times in 1982. Obtained from Leicester City for $300,000 in 1979, his original club was Motherwell. Inconsistency as well as disciplinary problems have dogged him.

BILLY DAVIES: Either as winger or midfielder, this diminutive young player surely has a golden future. A member of Scotland's successful 1982 youth squad, he joined Rangers from Pollok Boys' Club in 1979.

ROBERT PRYTZ: Played in 1979 European Champions' Cup final for Malmo and crossed North Sea after a $200,000 transfer three years later. The Swedish international, a versatile midfielder, is capable of dictating a game if on form.

IAN REDFORD: A $420,000 buy from Dundee four years ago, who can play at full back or in midfield. Lack of consistency has been this Scottish under-21 international's major problem.

JOHN MACDONALD: Nicknamed "Solo" because of his reluctance to pass the ball, he is a skilled forward who joined Rangers straight from school in 1978. Capped at schoolboy, youth and under-21 levels, but has yet to command regular first team place with Rangers.

ALLY MCCOIST: The sensation of Scotland's 1980 youth international side, he was transferred from St. Johnstone to Sunderland for $800,000 but could not settle "South of the Border." Since tunes waned considerably; however, he has recovered much of his previous form since return of Jock Wallace.

SANDY CLARK: After experiencing mixed fortunes in England with West Ham United, he returned to Scotland in a $300,000 move last year. The robust target man's original club was Airdrie.

ANDY KENNEDY: Raw, six foot tall, 19-year-old striker, who made his debut in 1982 and immediately became a Dumbarton favorite. A player for the future.

COLIN MACDAM: Brother of Celtic star Tom McDam, he played for Dumbarton, Motherwell and Partick Thistle, before leaving the latter in a $340,000 deal four years ago. A striker, who has also played in the heart of defence.

JOHN MACDONALD: Nicknamed "Solo" because of his reluctance to pass the ball, he is a skilled forward who joined Rangers straight from school in 1978. Capped at schoolboy, youth and under-21 levels, but has yet to command regular first team place with Rangers.

ALLY MCCOIST: The sensation of Scotland's 1980 youth international side, he was transferred from St. Johnstone to Sunderland for $800,000 but could not settle "South of the Border." Since a $400,000 move to Rangers last year, his career has revived considerably and the hat-trick scored against Celtic in the Scottish League Cup final assures adoration from half of Glasgow for many years to come.

DAVE COOPER: The enigmatic Scottish international winger has benefited from a recent reduction in weight — on Jock Wallace's insistence! A $200,000 buy from Clydebank in 1977, his hatred of publicity has won him few friends in the media.

BOBBY WILLIAMSON: An exciting young goalscoring winger, who signed from Clydebank for $200,000 last year. This crowd pleaser could be a sensation in Australia.

JOCK WALLACE: One of the few goalkeepers to make a success of management, he was last in of defence for Workington, Airdrie, West Bromwich Albion and Berwick Rangers. Commenced managerial career at Berwick, before graduating to Hearts, Rangers, Leicester City, Motherwell and now back to Rangers. During his first stint at Ibrox (1973-78), won eight trophies, including "treble" twice and since resuming as Rangers' manager has given every indication of collecting equally impressive tally of honors.

Bankstown-National slipped further down the ladder after being beaten 7-0 by Inter Monaro at Seifert Oval.

In fact, Bankstown — National has crashed to the bottom of the ladder after its sixths straight loss!
For Inter Monaro it was no more than a training run during Sunday afternoon with its players blazing past yet another side on their way to hitting top spot on the NSW State League ladder.

However, the State League is taking a rest this weekend and while Bankstown-National will look forward to the break, Manly and Inter will prepare for the Match of the Year at Seifert Oval when they clash on Sunday, June 3.

Should Manly leave the A.C.T. with a point, then it will have enhanced its chances for this year's premiership.

Early favourite Sutherland Shire slumped to yet another unexpected draw and is five points off the pace, but only a point outside the top four and still in with a chance of winning something this year. But before Sutherland considers itself a candidate for the premiership it must find another top striker.

In the match against Polonia, both sides had chances, with Polonia more than matching it illustrious opponent.

Rockdale-Ilinden had its own share of problems against the much improved Ku-Ring-Gai at Parklands Oval and it took a great 25 metre drive by Nasteviski in the dying minutes of the match to salvage a point for the favoured Rockdale.

Jimmy Bortolico, recently recruited from APIA, replaced Basil Pilevski in Rockdale's line-up, the result of series of poor performances by Rockdale's star defender.

And while all the hustle and bustle goes on about the leaders and those who fight to stave off relegation, Auburn Uruguay has settled into fourth spot after a draw with Warringah Narabeen. Auburn had more of the play but should have won but its forwards failed to find the net and subsequently had to be satisfied with a point.

Inter Monaro 7 Bankstown National 0

Scorers: Valeri 15th, 21st, Brennan 28th, Willox 35th, 70th, Monteroso 75th, Colteraldo 80th. Venue: Seifert Oval.
Yet another goal orgy by Inter Monaro hit the side to a two point lead in the NSW State League, but more significantly pointed out that all those travelling to the A.C.T. must expect a similar treatment.

Walter Valeri started the rout with the opening goals in the 15th and 21st minutes, while Tony Brennan and Billy Willox added one each before half time to end the first half on the same note as against Canterbury the previous week.

The strength of this Monaro side was indicated by its replacements: Brennan came off at half time with an injury and was replaced by Sebastian Giampaolo! And while Inter State League clubs are struggling to find a suitable 11, Inter Monaro has some fine names in its reserve side. Santolin, Popovic, Giampaolo and Djordjevic were on the bench, while six out of the 11 on the Park had NSL experience.

Bankstown National, the side that looked to be a top four contender after three rounds, slumped to its sixth successive defeat, and its display at Seifert Oval was absolutely woeful.

There was a moment of hope at the start of the second period when Bankstown came out with determination and even managed a shot at goal, but the light went out fairly soon and Inter Monaro proceeded to administer three more goals to conclude proceedings with Monteroso, Colteraldo and Willox the scorers.

It is significant to note that Inter Monaro does slow down considerably in its matches, especially at the start of the second half. That's just as well for Bankstown!

To counteract its latest debacle, Bankstown National's administration has decided to appoint an assistant coach. Actually Bankstown is a fair side it's just lacking in a bit of cohesion and fighting spirit.

NSW State League with ALEX VESIC planted his shot wide of Ahrens to equalise.

Chris Taminides, Yugal's off-season purchase from Canterbury, was Yugal's best player, while Budini and Mackenzie in the centre back positions stood tall amongst Avala players. Avala's mid-field is settling down and will prove decisive in matches to come. The side has now climbed off the bottom of the table collecting five out of six points in its last three outings.

Ku-Ring-Gai 2 Rockdale Ilinden 2
Scorers: Brown 4th, Bass 33rd, Jeffery 65th, Nasteviski 86th. Venue: Parklands Oval.

Parklands is getting tougher for most clubs to take points from. Despite Ku-Ring-Gai's seemingly desperate position, Vic Dalglish, the coach of Ku-Ring-Gai, is confident that his team has turned the corner this year.

Sure, the side is now sharing bottom goal with Bankstown, but it is only a point away from seventh place, indicating just how even the teams are in State League.

In fact, Ku-Ring-Gai looked set to take both points late in the game at Parklands. Leading 2-1 with only four minutes to go, the side fell to a superb goal by Nasteviski. It was a scorcher from some 25 metres which left Prentice helpless.

In fact it was then that Rockdale almost snatched a late winner in time added on but Prentice was equal to the occasion, this time making a brilliant save from Nasteviski.

Rockdale attacked from the opening bell and had the ball in the net after only two minutes, but the goal was disallowed for an infringement inside the area. Two minutes later, the visitors scored through Brown.

A shot by Branko Karanfilovski rebounded off the crossbar and fell to the feet of Ross Brown who slammed it back into the net.

Ku-Ring-Gai gradually got back into the match and after 33 minutes was on level terms. Glen Jeffery won the ball in the air, 25 metres from goal, to nod it into the path of Craig

Bass, and the rest was simple. Bass ran into the area before hitting home a strong drive.

About 20 minutes into the second half, Jeffery latched onto a good through ball by David Bennett to score, then chances fell both ways before Rockdale scored the equaliser. A header by Jeff Wilson was brilliantly saved by Prentice, then Jeffery beat the keeper at the other end only to see Bortolico clear off the line!

Alan Bourke had the chance to put the issue beyond doubt in the 85th minute. A cross, by Andy Tracey was headed over the bar by Bourke from close range, then came the equaliser.

Prentice was certainly the hero of the locals as he repeatedly saved his side with some fine saves, while Branko Karanfilovski played some scintillating soccer to taunt Ku-Ring-Gai's defence.

Canterbury 1 Manly Warringah 1
Scorers: Holloway 34th, Dounis 34th. Venue: Arlington Oval.

Top four contenders Manly and Canterbury battled the conditions at Arlington Oval to finish on level terms with Manly certainly the better side for most part and with more opportunities to score.

Both goals came within 30 seconds of play in the 34th minute of the first half, with Mark Holloway nothing his eighth goal of the season following a corner kick by Dudley Fox, then Louis Dounis equalising at the other end with a strong drive.

Manly had most of the play and chances in the opening stanza. Mark Holloway and Dudley Fox had as many as five opportunities between them but failed to beat El Zein, then Canterbury got on top in the second half to make life difficult for Chris Cassataroti.

Significantly, Manly made a substitution with 15 minutes to go with Tom Steven replacing Robbie Stuart. Steven made an immediate impact on this match and Manly took command, peppering El Zein but with little success.

Manly could look back at its chances during the first period and wonder about its chances for the championship. Holloway, its trump card up front, missed in the 1st, 14th and 24th minutes with Fox missing in the 28th and 38th minutes.

Polonia 0 Sutherland 0

Venue: Chopin Park
Vic Juchniwicz, the most recent signing by Polonia, would have been the toast of the Polish backed club but for a miss in the closing stages of this match.

Juchniwicz, still a little rusty after a long lay-off, played a fine hand in his team's 0-0 draw with Sutherland but could have covered himself in glory with 10 minutes remaining. Anton Galas started the move, finding Wojtek Nowak who in turn found Heniek Sobczyk. A quick one-two with Lumsdaine and Sobczyk was in the clear before pushing the ball to Juchniwicz close to goal. However, he missed and a gilt-edged chance had gone begging.

Sutherland had its own problems up front. Most of the blame for the loss of yet another point rests on Ian Barker's shoulder. Polonia's brave goalkeeper, in fact Barker played with no less than three suspected fractures, but threw caution to the wind to drive at opponents' feet like a man possessed.

Polonia's short passing game and quick interchanges baffled its opponent at times, while Sutherland's usual speed and stamina was sadly missed up front, yet again.

Johnny Lavin must be wondering what to do to score goals. Only three goals in the last four matches is not good enough for a side presuming to be championship material. Its defence is almost faultless with Dalorno and Schumann certainly one of the best centre back combinations, not only in State League. Its midfield with Harrington and Stoddard controlling traffic, looks solid enough but up front, oh boy, what a top flight striker would do in this team!

Not just the greats are great

Now let me go to Italy for my next bit of nostalgia and to the unlikely Army team which came to Australia for God knows what reason.

In that team, among several other young hopeful professionals, was a striker called Pruzzo who astonished many of us in Sydney with his skills. Pruzzo scored some of the most incredible goals you'll ever see — and also created others.

Then, for years, I couldn't understand how he never made either the 1978 or 1982 World Cup teams.

Now, at long last, near the twilight of his career, Pruzzo is the high-scoring ace of AS Roma. I only wish they had 'discovered' him earlier, when we did.

The elegant, slim figure of Kuwait's Fathi Khamil demands a place in this hall of immortals. Khamil was the man who, in 1977, shattered Australia's World Cup illusions as he led his Kuwait to a classy win.

Here, in this young Arab winger, was the strange recombination of Garrincha, by then dying of alcoholism and kidney ailments; the classic winger with the immaculate skills.

In between, somewhere, in this chronological potpourri, I must find a place for the 10th and last of my heroes, Dircou Lopes of Cruzeiro.

What this Brazilian striker did at Sydney Showground with the Slovian Bratislava defenders belongs to the pages of Boys' Own Almanachs. Once again, it was others who were heralded as the stars to watch: the great Tostao, possibly the Argentinian super Perfurio.

And then Dircou Lopes appeared and dazzled us all with one of the greatest skill displays ever seen in Sydney.

Who will join them from the teams soon to visit us? Which well-known stars or young hopefuls of Manchester United, Nottingham, Rangers, Ipswich or Juventus will make an indelible impression, leaving behind a piece of soccer magic?

Frankly, my dear, I don't give a damn... just so long as some of them do...

Przybyla puts paid to Pines

By MICK MITTEN

Polonia 3 Frank Pines 0

Scorers: Przybyla 48th, 86th, Mitten 57th.
Venue: Raleigh Reserve.

For a side with top four aspirations, Frankston Pines was very disappointing against top-of-the-table Polonia.

Early misses by Polonia strikers Janusz Przybyla and Noel Mitten, when both certainly should have scored, put Polonia under pressure to convert its dominance in the first 30 minutes into goals.

Pines came into the game and had their best spell in the last 15 minutes of the first half.

But back to those misses. Mitten had been put through after a good exchange between Joe Tront and Les Gregorzyk with Gregorzyk playing the ball to Mitten whose shot whistled over from close in.

It had been Przybyla's turn two minutes earlier. After a fine interpassing movement involving Rick Lipiarski, Mitten and Przybyla, the latter, with just Dave Stuchbury to beat, drove the ball over the Pines' bar.

So the sides went in at the half time break, deadlocked at 0-0, but in another context that took place in the first half, Polonia led with three nutmegs to Pines' one.

Three minutes into the second half Przybyla scored the goal which saw Pines fade from the game.

A Stefan Mila drive from 30 metres found Stuchbury falling to hold and Przybyla chipped the ball over the fallen keeper to make it 1-0.

Polonia increased its lead in the 57th minute, when Gregorzyk rolled the ball to the edge of the box for Mitten to sidestep past the advancing Stuchbury into the far corner of goal.

Around the 70th minute, a series of unbelievable misses and goalmouth scrambles culminated in Peter Thurlow clearing off the line from a Gregorzyk effort and Stuchbury saving with his feet to deny Przybyla.

With four minutes left, Przybyla notched his second and Polonia's third. A quickly taken throw-in from the right went to Dave Gibson, whose cross was headed on by Przybyla. Mitten won the ball in a clash with Stuchbury, allowing Przybyla to pounce and tap in the empty net.

THE DAY OF RECKONING FOR MORRIS MEN!

Quite a few people at Box Hill think that the club can win the 1984 State League championship. If they're to be proven right, then the Hillmen must beat top-of-the-table Polonia at Wembley Park on Saturday.

Clearly, Polonia and Fawknor are two of the best sides in State League and it's up to the likes of Box Hill and Morwell Falcons to prove that they've got what it takes to match strides with the top two.

The Hillmen go into the game slightly frayed around the edges after their 0-0 draw with Doveton last weekend.

Box Hill coach Bill Murray will spend this week wondering whether Don Brownlie or Dean Hennessy should partner David Brooks at the heart of Box Hill's defence, knowing that leading State League scorer Janusz Przybyla and proven State League performer Noel Mitten represent a real threat to the home side.

Danny McCluskey, making only his third full appearance for Polonia this season, started at centre half alongside the great Stefan Mila last weekend as Polonia beat Frankston Pines 3-0.

The Mila-McCluskey combination confronts Peter Verezhia and Steve Smith on Saturday in a contest which will have a major bearing on the outcome of this crucial match.

Polonia is the only undefeated side in State League and a draw at Wembley Park wouldn't be a bad result for Hill Gardiner's charges. However, knowing that it's make or break for Box Hill, I'm going to stick out my neck.

Metro Division One

BELL PARK 2 (P. Mills 30th, A. McIntyre 77th) NUNAWADING CITY 1 (J. Nyholt 46th) at Bell Park, Saturday.

BELL PARK: Amos, Babic, Smilovski, Lawson, P. Mills, McIntyre, Orlin, Carmichael (Warrack 79).
NUNAWADING CITY: Madjar, Greenwood, West, Fuzer, Deane, Bakker, Van Egmond, Nelles, Nyholt, Van Leuven (Fort 81), McCerthy (Bailey 83).

Bell Park earned two valuable points when it beat a depleted Nunawading City by the odd goal in three on Saturday.

Nyholt could have put Nunawading 2-0 up in the first 12 minutes when he twice rounded Amos in the Bell Park goal, only to be forced wide.

Metro Division Two

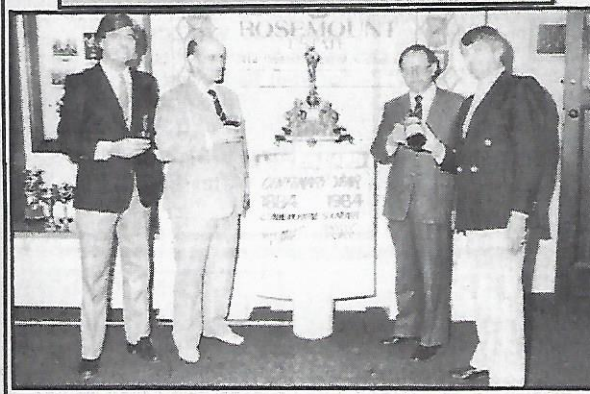

ELTHAM 2 (Briggs 43rd, P. Cirka 48th) MORNINGTON 3 (Smart 8th, M. Cirka o.g. 10th, Stewart 83rd) at Eltham, Saturday.

ELTHAM: Panna 7, Alderson 5, Lewis 5, M. Cirka 6, Delany 5, Woodward 8, P. Cirka 7 (Norton 80th), Isaac 7, Venderlik 6, Briggs 6, Schipano 8.
MORNINGTON: Clarke 7, Pye 6, Mitchell 6, Vail 7, Paulding 8, J. Cameron 7, P. Cameron 6, Stewart 8, Congdon 6, Runje 7, Smart 9.

In a thrilling game at North Eltham the league leader Mornington survived a torrid half-hour of Eltham pressure to grab both points with a late goal.

The Redback rearguard was an utter shambles at the start one last time and tip the Hillmen to win. If so, they'll really open up the race for the title.

The contours of Selwyn Park aren't very inviting, as Fawknor will find out on Saturday when it takes on Albion Rovers. However, Jan Tuffield will be back in the Fawknor line-up and his renowned heading ability should prove too much for the home side.

Albion welcomed Scottish midfielder Tom Purcell last Friday. He only came in the second half against St Albans Dinamo but is a certain starter here. Fawknor's midfield strongman Peter Boyle is bound to give Purcell a warm welcome to the rigors of the Victorian State League.

Ringwood Wilhelmina coach Rudy van Altena is confident that his side can at least gain a point from its trip to the Latrobe Valley on Saturday to take on fourth placed Morwell Falcons. I don't share Rudy's confidence.

Can Croydton bounce back last week's reversal against Fawknor? I bet that there were a lot of bitterly disappointed people at Croydton last Sunday evening and this Saturday, Croydton squares up to Western Suburbs at Croydton Park. A few people at Suburbs are complaining about the treatment dished out to star striker Ged Stenson in recent games but that's just part and parcel of making a name for yourself in State League and no doubt, Stenson will be watched closely on Saturday again. I'm going to put at risk the free lunch offered me by Suburbs' coach Jimmy Condlis and go for a Croydton win.

Broadmeadows can beat St Albans Dinamo at Laura Douglas Reserve on Saturday in their bottom-of-the-table clash. Broadie made a great signing last week when it bought midfielder Stuart Blair from South Australian club Azurri. If it can sign a top class striker, it will have gone a long way toward solving its most pressing problem.

Pines and Knox should draw at Monterey Boulevard while another good draw bet is the Northcote v. Doveton clash at John Cain Reserve. Both games are on Saturday. Pines' import Ray Thomas came on as a sub last weekend but looks odds-on to be in the starting line-up against Knox.

Fermo il campionato nazionale australiano; si gioca la "National Cup"; arriva la Juventus di Torino!!!

Se qualcuno dei nostri lettori (o dei lettori di tutti i giornali stampati in una moltitudine di lingue — inglese inclusa — in questo continente dove il calcio e' stato sempre troppo poco) dovesse essere alquanto confuso da quello che sta succedendo e volesse sapere una volta per sempre quale Juventus giocherà contro quale squadra per quale coppa o in quale torneo in quale città di quale nazione... abbiamo la risposta più indicata: calmiamoci e cerchiamo di capire che troppo calcio tutto di colpo sta confondendo anche i cervelli elettronici delle grandi organizzazioni che stanno cercando di distruggere la matassa.

Innanzitutto e' bene tener presente che la Juventus di Torino e' quella che ha vinto la Coppa delle Coppe, quella che ha vinto il campionato italiano per la ventesima volta, quella che verra' in tournee in Australia e che giocherà a Sydney (due volte), a Melbourne (una volta) e ad Adelaide (una volta); e' anche quella per la quale ci sarà una grande cena danzante alla St Kilda Town Hall la sera di domenica 10 giugno (dopo la partita pomeridiana contro la nazionale australiana a Melbourne) e un ricevimento al Ruggiero Reception Centre di Hendon (subito dopo la partita serale contro la nazionale australiana ad Adelaide).

Il fatto che nelle organizzazioni di queste funzioni sociali ci siano coinvolte altre due Juventus (la Brunswick United Juventus di Melbourne e la Adelaide City Juventus di Adelaide) che perciò vendono la, Boniek, Bodini, Caricola, Furino, Tavola, Prandelli, Koetting.

Le Partite della Juventus di Torino saranno le seguenti: mercoledì 6 giugno, a Sydney contro il Manchester United (notturna, con inizio alle 8 pm); domenica 10 giugno, a Melbourne, contro la nazionale australiana (pomeridiana, con inizio alle 3 pm); martedì 12 giugno, ad Adelaide, contro la nazionale australiana (notturna, con inizio alle 8 pm); sabato 16 giugno, a Sydney, contro la nazionale australiana (pomeridiana, con inizio alle 3 pm); domenica 10 giugno, ad Adelaide, contro la nazionale australiana (notturna, con inizio alle 8 pm); sabato 16 giugno, a Sydney, contro la nazionale australiana (pomeridiana, con inizio alle 3 pm).

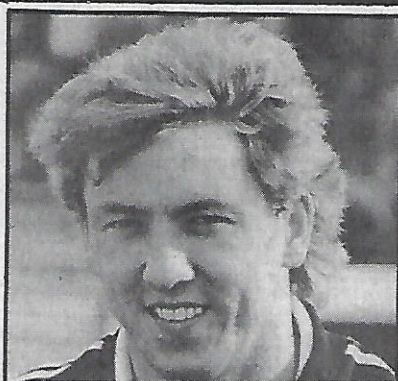

I biglietti per queste partite sono naturalmente in vendita in diversi bottegghini della rispettive città (che sono le agenzie BASS a Melbourne e a Sydney e altre agenzie ad Adelaide).

Almeno due serate sociali saranno organizzate in onore della Juventus di Torino: a Melbourne ci sarà una cena danzante alla St Kilda Town Hall la sera di domenica 10 giugno e gli interessati debbono telefonare ai dirigenti della Juventus di Melbourne (signora Tenace, 63.2127 di giorno; Caruso, 312.4711 di giorno; Tenuta, 383.2213 di sera); per la serata sociale di Adelaide (martedì 12 giugno, dalle 10 pm) bisogna rivolgersi presso la sede del circolo Juventus, Olympic Sports Field, Kensington.

A Sydney, ovviamente le cose saranno più semplici perché la Juventus di Torino sarà l'unica Juventus ad alto livello in quella città (le maggiori squadre italiane locali per fortuna questa volta si chiamano APIA e Marconi e non hanno colori bianconeri).

CALCIO AUSTRALIANO

Il prossimo weekend non ci saranno partite per il campionato di Lega Nazionale che riprenderà solo fra quattro settimane (23-24 giugno) dopo il torneo internazionale. Nel frattempo però verra' giocata la "National Cup" alla quale partecipano solo

David Mitchell, del Glasgow Rangers, sta giocando con la Juventus di Adelaide e giocherà con la nazionale australiana contro il Glasgow Rangers e contro la Juventus di Torino. Non e' uno sciolingual il giocatore e' in forza al Glasgow, e' in prestito alla Juventus di Adelaide, e' disponibile per la nazionale australiana perché e' cittadino australiano (giocava con la Juventus di Adelaide) ed e' stato selezionato per giocare con tale nazionale contro la sua squadra di appartenenza (il Glasgow) e contro la "consorella" di Torino della Juventus di Adelaide.

Abbiamo la fortuna di questi tempi di poter vedere in diretta alla televisione le finali di competizioni di Coppe televisive le finali di competizioni di Coppe che si giocano in Europa fra alcune delle migliori squadre del mondo; abbiamo anche la fortuna di poter vedere giocare qui in Australia alcune delle migliori squadre del mondo contro ben due nazionali australiane; abbiamo anche la fortuna di avere qui in Australia alcune squadre italiane locali che si comportano molto bene nei campionati locali e nelle competizioni di Coppe locali; sfortunatamente però sembra che tutto sia arrivato allo stesso tempo e che il classico "pancia mia fatti capanna" stia diventando "pancia di noi tutti cerca di non scoppiare, senno' qui va a finire a collino".

Chi vuole andare alle varie partite delle varie Juventus nelle varie città stia attento che legga bene i giornali ed ascolti bene radio e televisione... ed usi quindi il suo buon senso per assicurarsi che non ha comprato i biglietti per andare alla cena danzante in onore della Juventus di Torino, mentre invece voleva andare a vedere la partita della nazionale australiana contro la squadra dei campioni d'Italia. E prima di telefonare ai giornali, alla radio, alla televisione, alla Federcalcio, agli "amici che se ne intendono", e' bene sapere esattamente cosa si vuole chiedere!

JUVENTUS DI TORINO

Stando alle ultimissime conferme dei responsabili della Federcalcio Australiana (dietro la quale però opera la West Nelly Limited che e' una delle più grandi organizzazioni del mondo nel campo delle promozioni sportive), la Juventus di Torino arriverà in Australia con una squadra praticamente al completo (dei "grandi" mancherà solo Platini); questa la lista dei giocatori: Taccani, Gentile, Cabrini, Bionini, Brio, Scirea, Penzo, Tardelli, Rossi, Vigno-

TRIJUMF MAKEDONJE I PORAZ JUST-a

Kao što smo predvideli Makedonija je dostigla vrhunsku formu u ovom vremenu. Izgleda da je na treće mesto, svezna jedan bod iz prvog na tabeli Nacionalne konferencije, čiji je favorit bio jedan za prvo mesto.

Heroj visoke pobede nad zasukom West Adelaidea bio je kontroverzni jalmi Claude Lucchese, koji je prošle godine stavio u nezgodan položaj Makedoniju, i preto da napusti klub, ali se na kraju pokajao. Međutim, njegov samovoljan odlazak u Ameriku bio je skupoce za Makedoniju, jer je izgubila titulu prvaka.

Posle ce igrati u najljepšem sastavu Makedonija ima najbolji iz izgleda da trijumfuje u Nacionalnom kupu, koji počinje u utorak 22. maja, ali "igravni" su prvi utakmicu u sredi 23. maja na Olimpiku Parku protiv Melbourne Croatia. Ova utakmica počinje u 8.15 uvece. Sudi Sam Zoumas. U predigri se sastaju Heidelberg Utd i Green Gully.

Druge utakmicu za Nacionalni Kup Makedonija igra u subotu 26. maja protiv Heidelberga na Olympic Villagu u 3 po podne. Ova utakmica su sudi E. Venios, a u predigri se sastaju Green Gully i Melbourne Croatia.

Nasuprot Makedoniji, JUST-a tabor ne moze biti briga da preživji narednu nedelju. Dok su se članovi i prijatelji JUST-a sa uspehom sastali da umanje posledice politickog huliganizma posle susreta sa Croatijom, dotle su igraci nastavili sa nesigurnim hodom kroz prvenstvene okrušaje i jos uvek se nalaze u opasnoj zoni, od koje ne mogu da se odlepe od osnivanja Nacionalne lige.

Poraz u Adelaidi delovao je kao hladan tuš, iako se nije moglo i smelo vice ocekivati. "Plavi" su otili u Adelaidu bez 4 dobra igraca, a noveli su Dragana Lactmanovica, koji je to jutro stigao iz Jugoslavije. Pored toga je zbog lošeg vremena imao je zubboljivi, ali je igrav. U takvom sastavu nije mogao da se sacuva od grube igre domaceg tima, prav je morao da napusti teren teze proveden je, tako da ce navijaci JUST-a u Melburnu morati dosta dugo da cekaju da ga vide u "plavom" dresu. Gori i veci malar nije magao da zadesi JUST-a, koji je sve nade polagao u dolazak ovog igraca sa velikom reputacijom.

Iako su utakmicu protiv Adelaide Citya završili sa 10 igrača, "plavi" su mogli da izvuku jedan bod. Vlatko Belic i Zdravko Lujic imali su stoprocentne sanse, dok je Adelaide City iskoristio dve polusane da osvoji oba boda.

Zahvaljujući seriji međunarodnih igara JUST ce imati priliku da iskoristi jednomecni odmor, da se oporavi od brojnih povreda ključnih igrača. Međutim, savez se pobrinuo da pokvari taj odmor sa Nacionalnim kupom, koji trazi jos vise napora i zalaganja.

U Nacionalnom kupu JUST igra prvu utakmicu u utorak, a drugu u subotu 26. maja na Middle Parku protiv George Crossa u 1.15 po podne. Sudi Chris Cambridge. Glavni sudija utakmicu u 3 po podne igraju Hellas i Juventus.

U subotu 26. maja Ringwood/Srbija docekuje na svom terenu Dandenong City.
